Fran Johnson severely burned in early morning fire

A 16-year-old North Wilmington girl is in critical, but stable condition as the result of a Saturday morning fire in which she is credited with saving the lives of her brother and his friend.

Francine Johnson of 45 High St. is in the intensive care section of the Bartlett Burns Center of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, with second and third degree burns on nearly 80 per cent of her body.

She awoke shortly after 5 a.m. Saturday to find her second-floor bedroom engulfed in flames. Fleeing her room, she stopped long enough to kick open the door to her brother Marc's bedroom, screaming to wake Marc and a friend, Steven Keith. She then fled to the first floor, screaming, waking her parents Harry and Nicki Johnson and her older brother Frank.

While Mr. Johnson wrapped Fran in towels, Mrs. Johnson phoned for help, reaching the police department.

Sgt. Jay Palmer was in North Wilmington Center, a half mile from the scene when the call came in. He was the first to arrive at the fire. He said that he saw Francine sitting on the steps of the house next door, and that he thought she was a spectator until he noticed that her hair was singed. Then he observed that she was in a state of shock.

By then, another police cruiser had arrived, and Palmer instructed Officers Joe Waterhouse and Larry Redding to rush the girl to the hospital. Doctors later told Mr. Johnson that his prompt action is primarily responsible for making the girl's survival possible.

Taken to Winchester Hospital, she was quickly transferred to Peter Bent Brigham in Boston. It is expected that she will remain there for several months.

The two boys sleeping on the second floor barely escaped. As they ran down the stairs, flames erupted from Francine's room, into the upstairs hall.

When firemen arrived, the entire second floor was burning. Working with two engines and the ladder truck, fire fighters prevented the fire from spreading to the first floor.

The second floor, consisting of two bedrooms, a small storage room and a hall, was entirely gutted. The first floor sustained smoke and water damage, but firemen were able to protect much of the furniture with drop cloths.

Fire officials said that the cause of the fire is still under investigation.

The Johnson family has been staying with friends since the fire, hoping to secure a trailer to live in while their home is repaired.

A fund has been set up at the Melrose Savings Bank to aid the family. Donations may be sent to the Johnson fund, care of the Melrose Savings Bank, 219 Lowell Street, Wilmington.

Bellissimo calls it quits

Wilmington High School head football coach Fred Bellissimo submitted his resignation as coach to the Wilmington School Committee last week. He is shown above in a 1972 conference with halfback Bob Bavota and assistant coach John Ritchie. For more on the story, see page 6.

Long chase leads to court

A 14-year-old Tewksbury youth who led police on a cross-country chase Tuesday morning was in Woburn District Court on Tuesday afternoon, charged with malicious damage to personal property and possession of a dangerous weapon.

Wilmington police received a complaint about 11 a.m. Tuesday from a truck driver who said that his window had been shot out near the Fred Cain garage. He thought that a gun had been used.

Police responded to the area, and soon five officers were chasing a youth through swamps and along the railroad tracks. He was finally caught on Nichols Street, more than a mile from the origin of the chase.

The youth was found to have a slingshot in his possession, police said.

The cross-country squad of the police department included Sgt. Jay Palmer, Officers Chris Neville, and James Cuoco and Inspectors Joe Cuoco and John Harvey.

'Scotland' next week

Tour the lochs of bonnie Scotland, listen to the Viking sagas of the Shetland Islands, encounter the brutal storms and the awesome power of the North Sea and its oil.

Best of all, do it for free.

On Thursday, April 13, the Carter Lecture Committee will present "Scotland," a new film by William G.V. Sylvester, at 8:15 in Wilmington High School's Barrows Auditorium.

Highlights of the film include rare glimpses of Scottish farm life; a parade of Atholl Highlanders; and a look at Scotland's wildlife especially a shower-loving falcon named Freddy.

The Carter Lectures are offered free of charge to all residents of Wilmington.

They were made possible by a gift bequeathed to the town of Wilmington by Sara D.J. Carter (1832-1907).

Sarah Carter was the daughter of Joshua Jacquith, descendants of an earlier Jacquith who was among the first settlers of the town. Her mother was Sabra (Gowing) Jacquith.

In her will, Mrs. Carter left a sum of six thousand dollars in trust to the town. The principal was to be reinvested, but any income was to be used to provide a series of lectures to benefit the townspeople.

In recent years, lecture topics have included a world voyage on the brigantine "Yankee," a bicentennial tour of New England and a film entitled "A New Norway."

Enthusiasm runs high for Student Government Day

Approximately 60 Wilmington High School students met at the North Intermediate School Monday night to enjoy a banquet in their honor and to share with parents and friends their experiences as members of the Student Government Day Association.

Although the dinner marked the official close of the 1978 program, several students have expressed their intention to continue their involvement in town government. Nearly all said the program had helped them to achieve a greater appreciation for a way a town is run.

Each year students are elected or appointed to town positions following the procedure for the election or appointment of regular town officials. They observe the workings of their respective boards or committees for several weeks and are then sworn into office on Student Government Day.

On March 29, following swearing-in ceremonies at the town hall, the temporary town officials left on various field trips designed to heighten their understanding of each one's particular aspect of town government.

A full report of the day's activities was given by the chairmen of the various boards at the Monday evening banquet.

First to speak was Student Town Moderator Tom Bachman, who offered grace. "Thank you, Lord," he said, "for helping us get through the winter of '78."

Second on the agenda was Student State Representative Tom Gagnon who recounted impressions of a state house tour he made with members of the board of selectmen and the town moderator. The tour, which was led by State Rep. Jim Miceli, included sitting in on an informal session of the House of Representatives and an introduction to Governor Dukakis. Later the students had an opportunity to hear an armed robbery trial in progress at the Cambridge Court.

Gagnon said that, for him, the most memorable part of the trip was the House of Representatives.

"State Representative Miceli told us that most of the work was done outside in the halls and corridors," he said cryptically. "I could see why. There certainly wasn't anything being done inside the chambers."

He said of Representative Miceli, "I feel he is one of the better representatives we have in the state and I am proud that he can represent us."

Gagnon concluded with an expression of thanks to the League of Women Voters for initiating Student Government Day, which, he said, gave students a better understanding of government and gave legislators a chance to know what future voters are thinking.

Don Lombardi, chairman of the board of selectmen said that the student selectmen have been sitting in on meetings of their senior counterparts for several weeks. Lombardi said they planned to continue to do this and to continue to aid the Wilmington Housing Authority's drive to obtain signatures for two petitions currently being circulated in town.

One of these petitions asked the state to regroup Wilmington with towns of its own size when considering it for allocation of funds. The other petitions the state for funding for 110 units of housing for the elderly.

Karen Mader, chairman of the Board of Appeals, reported on a trip to Quincy Market, and the Mercantile Apartments to study the process of revitalization. "She, too, thanked the League of Women Voters for what she termed "a unique educational opportunity."

"I hope we can use the information we obtained to better our school system," said Brenda Carta, student school committee chairman.

The school committee, along with Student High School Principal Mark Mueller, Student Vice Principal Chris Romanski and Superintendent of Schools Al Tutela, attended an early morning meeting at the Roman House and made a field trip to Shawshen Tech and to the Woburn High School field house. As for routine duties, Romanski reported they had suspended one student for smoking in the girls room.

Student Chief of Police Tom Stewart and his subordinates may have had the most unusual field trip of all. After a day spent at the police station and the Woburn district court, they were fingerprinted, handcuffed and returned to the high school in the police cruiser.

Other student officials who spoke included Jim Miceli Jr., student chairman of the planning board whose group toured the Quincy Market and the Mercantile Apartments with the board of appeals; Pam Strand, chairman of the recreation commission whose group evaluated comparative recreation facilities in Burlington and Acton; and Margie Keefe, chairman of the historical commission whose committee visited Old Ironsides and Bunker Hill.

Chairman of the Conservation Commission Eric Wood, said that his group attended the most recent meeting of the Conservation Commission, held after Student Government Day, because of their new interest in the problems of conservation. Their tour took them to Brown's Crossing for a study of Wilmington's wells and later to Earthwatch, a Belmont wildlife sanctuary.

Al Tutela perhaps summed up the feelings of all the student officials when he said "Next year I hope to be in student government again."

Student government day is co-sponsored by the League of Women Voters and the School Department. It is currently in its 12th year.

Former Selectman Michael Cairra and former School Committee Member Harry Landers are two men whose interest in local government stemmed from high school involvement with the Student Government Association.

The 1978 program was coordinated by Co-chairwomen Ruth Ottati and Barbara Welton of the LWV, along with Jack Lynch, assistant principal of the high school.

Loch Ness

The monster made it famous. On Thursday, April 13, William G. Sylvester will present a program on Scotland at the Barrows Auditorium at Wilmington High School.

Workshops on "Activities at home"

The Blizzard of '78 gave a new sense of urgency to an old question..... "What do we do with our children when we can't send them off to school?"

The Woburn Street School has an answer.

Thursday, April 6, from 7 to 9:30 p.m., they will present a Parent Workshop. Entitled "Activities to do with Children at Home," it is designed to help parents glide easily through those bleak winter months when almost nobody plays outdoors...for very long.

A demonstration of many activities geared for children between the ages of three and nine will be given by Joan York. Materials used will help develop specific manual, visual, auditory and creative skills. Older children often enjoy and can benefit from the activities to be demonstrated.

York holds a master's degree in education. She has had extensive teaching experience in elementary and special needs classrooms and enjoys creative at-home teaching with her son, Jason, age three.

Gaffney says education formula fraudulent

Tewksbury State Representative Jay Gaffney will oppose the report of the Commission on Unequal Educational Opportunity. Gaffney said that the proposed new school aid formula is the Dukakis Administration's declaration of economic war against suburban taxpayers. Among the towns which would be hardest hit by the formula change are Tewksbury, Billerica, Chelmsford and Wilmington.

Applying the new formula to last year's funding levels, Tewksbury's aid would plummet from $2,972,147.00 to $16,275.00; Billerica drops from $4,948,484.00 to $2,341,370.00; Chelmsford is slashed from $3,755,139.00 to $1,402,521.00. Wilmington receives the cruellest treatment of all, being entitled to no funds under the new formula.

This pattern is repeated among suburban communities across the state. In fact, 270 of the state's 351 municipalities are losers under the new formula.

The losers category, ironically includes all those towns with large school populations and expenses. The formula effects this shift by changing the aid formula's basis from the number of students in a school to the total population of the municipality. This change, according to Gaffney, makes the formula educational in name only. Statements which suggest that the new formula equalized educational opportunity were dismissed by Gaffney as propaganda.

The biggest winner in the Commission's school aid sweepstakes is the City of Boston which takes in a whopping thirty-three million dollar increase, despite the fact that the city's school population has been declining for several years.

Representative Gaffney said that it would have been more candid for the administration and the commission to entitle their handiwork as the "Mayor Kevin White Re-election Fund."

The suburban taxpayers, Gaffney said, who will be funding this windfall should be appalled to see funds that are desperately needed to help towns and cities defray the cost of state mandated education programs instead go to underwrite Mayoral limosines, no bid contracts, and to pay the salaries of the Sarah Kennedys, Claire Casos and others in Boston's army of no-show employees.

"The administration is trying to sell this formula by dangling a one hundred and fifty million dollar bribe in front of the 270 losing towns and cities. The sum would save these towns and cities harmless from being decimated by the formula and give them a ten percent increase," Tewksbury, Billerica, Chelmsford and Wilmington are in this ten percent category.

However, Gaffney said that these towns should not be satisfied with a ten percent increase when the one hundred and fifty million dollars represents a state-wide funding increase of better than thirty percent. If the same one hundred and fifty million dollars were added to present formulas, Tewksbury's aid would increase by $1,007,881 an increase of more than a third. Billerica would pick up $1,587,143, an increase just under a third. Chelmsford's gain would be $1,337,372, more than a third, and Wilmington would have picked up $623,995.00 also gaining more than one third. For area towns, even with the extra funding, the formula change results in a twenty percent drop in what they would gain under the present funding methods. However, Mr. Gaffney said he is even more concerned about what might happen in future years when the one hundred and fifty million dollars might not be available.

Gaffney said his concern is based on the fact that this money is a carefully hoarded election year surplus that is, in large part, based on one time Federal payments. Without this extra money to level off the formula distributions, the towns will be decimated.

Gaffney and other area legislators will oppose the new formula and are now working on developing an alternative which is not a fiscal "scorched earth" policy for suburban school systems. Gaffney also indicated that he will, for the same reasons, support full assumption of county court costs by the state.

Duke and the driver

Governor Michael Dukakis was the featured speaker at a testimonial for Representative Jim Miceli on Friday night at the Sons of Italy Hall on Ballardvale Street, North Wilmington. Riding in style, the governor arrived in an old blue station wagon with a state insignia on the side. His driver was an aide, not a state trooper. Wilmington police were on the lookout for the governor's arrival, but missed him.

Dukakis called Miceli a tremendous asset to state government, noting that he was not saying the words lightly.

Laughing with George

House Majority Whip George Kevanian of Everett provided the Miceli gathering with 15 minutes of rib-splitting jokes, Friday night. Much of the humor, of course, was pointed at Miceli, shown laughing at right. At far left is Mrs. Shirley Callan, next to her husband, John Callan, who served as master of ceremonies. More than 300 people turned out for the event.

Mural takes shape on Elks' wall

by Tony Galinis,
Tewksbury Editor

Move over Michael Angelo!

Tewksbury has its own artist, only she is a female charmer with a paint brush. She is converting a large, blank wall behind the bar at the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks hall where imaginary figures would dot the eye at times if one might imbibe more than usual.

This time, there will be an attractive, colorful mural to enchant the eye of the beholder. It is to be completed by the end of April for future Elks' visitors.

The wall behind the bar covers a space of 28 feet by six feet and it is being slowly covered with deft and visionary strokes by a young, charming mural artist from Waltham, by way of Springfield and Chicopee, with a few steps in parts of Pennsylvania along the way.

Frances Ahearn wanted to be an artist since her fourth grade days in Chicopee and Springfield. But like many who have a dream, it was only to see it disappearing at dawn. Fran stayed with her dream.

From her birthplace in Chicopee, the land of the kielbasa, to Springfield for her schooling, she itched at artistry and converting ideas on canvas or paper. From her graduation from Springfield High School, she heard of a small college adept in teaching art. She went to Mercyhurst College in Erie, Pennsylvania, probably noted for coal and Amish styles to most. She graduated in 1974, having completed successful courses in art. With her sheepskin she became a member of the graduating class.

One's stomach begins to growl when it isn't fed, no matter what one may hope to attain as a goal in life. So Fran took odd jobs to feed her growling stomach and eventually she wound up in Boston taking advertising jobs along the way.

In Boston, she had applications in various jobs, but somehow being a member of the female sex slowed her progress in the art and advertising world.

She took up residence in Waltham and undaunted, strode into a firm near the Burlington Mall.

Her forte was line art, but for her explanation, I wouldn't know. You know those instructions you get in the "How To" put together, assemble, toys and the like? Her job was to draw the instructions on the paper that came attached to the toy or bicycle. The kind that a 12-year-old could put together without any trouble? The kind that drives a 30-year-old parent to a room with bars?

She is what one would classify as a technical illustrator. She also dabbles in various forms of art. She likes doing murals, has done quite a few in other localities. The challenge, in Tewksbury's Elks hall was to her liking.

A co-worker named George happens to be a member of the Elks in Tewksbury. He introduced the subject one day, about the lodge aiming to cover up that blank space over the bar. He told her some of the members were thinking of a mural. She dropped in for a visit, talked to Walt Sharkey, and showed three or four ideas for the mural. She brought samples of her ideas on paper for a visual effect.

Her ideas were excellent, so much so that the Elks assigned her the task of covering the wall 28 feet by six feet. She has been working for almost two weeks and the theme is the majestic elk in the high mountain ranges of the western states. Initially, she had thought of several deer, for her mural, but what Elks would stand or lean for that?

So now this slight, 25-year-old who looks so frail when you first see her, but turns on a bright studios charm when you talk of murals, is undertaking a giant step to prove her capabilities as an artist.

Then when we began to talk about Chicopee and its ethnic picnics, that relaxed her. You might have read of the 100-foot long kielbasa that was stolen in Chicopee last year during a celebration by the community? It was a mild bypass from talking to a young woman who never gave up on her goals.

The Tewksbury-Wilmington Lodge of Elks will be the recipient of her perseverance.

Dear Editor:

The article regarding O'Loughlin Drive (Town Crier - Front Page 3-29-78) was a derogatory piece of fiction, for the following reasons:

1. The residents of O'Loughlin Drive were listed on the agenda for the Selectmen's meeting. (Your reporter insinuated we barged in and took over the meeting.)

2. There were seven (7) residents from O'Loughlin Drive and three (3) residents from Whipple Road. (Your reporter stated 12 or more residents from O'Loughlin Drive.)

3. No resident was rude (as your reporter stated) to interrupt the Selectmen.

4. Astle Street (your reporter said Astle Road) is not near the beginning of O'Loughlin Drive, where the drainage problem started.

The only piece of truth in the entire article should have been the heading, of the same article: "O'Loughlin Drive is a pleasant place to live."

Your reporter owes the residents of this drive a front page apology for disparaging us in his very poor coverage.

I suggest in the future, your reporter "stick to the facts" when he has front page news. He should also follow up on his story... If he had followed this procedure he would have seen the DPW working hard on our problem, on the day his "big news" appeared.

The signature has been withheld to avoid giving cause for embarrassment. Ed.

The Wilmington Planning Board recommended approval of two of the three articles of which the LWV disapproved. Ed.

Sincerely,
Maida G. Eisenberg, President

1. The agenda listed the Town Engineer, not the residents.
2. A resident did interrupt, rudely, the chairman of the board of selectmen. The executive secretary told the group the board would hear them later.
3. There was no intention to disparage any person in the neighborhood, and it was noted that members of the DPW had been working there. The area is still a mass of drunlin rock and water does not go through rock.
4. The Town Crier, as is fairly well known, is published once a week, and could not possibly respond in the manner suggested by the writer of this missive.

Wilmington RepublicansWilmington Republicans,
last Thursday entertained,
and heard Frank Hatch, minority leader of the House,
in the state legislature. Mr.
Hatch, a tall lean individual, is a candidate for nomination and election as Governor of the Commonwealth. He made a good impression in Wilmington.Frank Hatch took over the leadership of the Republican Party in Massachusetts in 1971, at a time when the state committee was nearly bankrupt. He launched a hard-hitting campaign to recruit Republican legislative candidates, train them and help them develop issues and support, financially.
He made it clear that his program was not the same as those of other candidates.
Local aid from the state to cities and towns, in 1975 com-prised 27 per cent of the state budget, Hatch said. Since then, under the present Governor, the aid has been steadily eroding, and the recent promise of an increase will bring it back to only 24.7 per cent. The governor, he charged, has been short changing the cities and towns for three years, and now he wants us to believe he has changed his ways.
"In an election year" Hatch said "The governor is giving us back the school aid that he has squandered away for threeyears." "He is restoring to our pockets a portion of the tax increases he has taken from us, for three years."
"Do not be fooled by election year rhetoric,"
"Massachusetts needs a local aid program that will guarantee stable property taxes. The governor's program does not provide that guarantee."Hatch also told the Wilmington Committee that he had never favored a graduated income tax, which has been devised by the legislature.He called the graduated income tax a "Non issue." "It's dead," he said. "We should be aiming at more important and more urgent problems."Frank Hatch favors a "piggy-back" system of income taxes, on that would let the residents of the Commonwealth compute their state tax by simply paying a percentage of their Federal income tax.It would, he said "greatly simplify the bureaucracy needed to administer the tax department, and would simplify it for many, including the elderly."Frank Hatch never favored letting the legislature perform "open heart surgery on the state income tax." He campaign vigorously against the 1976 referendum question, and it went down subsequently to defeat.Hatch, too, was against the proposed gun confiscation.There was, recently, he said, a chart mailed out to the Republican Committee members, which purported to show that Hatch favored gun confiscation. That, he said, was false.He was against the "Saturday Night Specials." It was, he said, "the only gun bill he would vote for."Wilmington School

A touch of class leaves with Fred

Copyright 1978 by Larz Neilson

Sports Editor's note: Town Crier correspondent Larry McGrath has known and worked with coach Bellissimo for six years. McGrath describes his feelings on the WHS coach's resignation.

by Larry McGrath
The last of the old school coaches at Wilmington High School has resigned. After 22 years of prowling the sidelines Fred Bellissimo last Wednesday night called it quits. Citing only personal reasons, Bellissimo closed out an era that might never be matched at Wilmington.

It will seem rather strange seeing Fred raking leaves on a fall afternoon instead of moving up and down the practice field or putting his charges through wind sprints to close out yet another practice.

What most people saw on Saturday afternoon was a small part and probably the most misunderstood part of the whole high school football operation. From the last week in August to the Saturday after Thanksgiving, football is a seven-day a week job.

The job that sometimes looks easy on Saturday takes many hours of dedication during the week. A loss come Saturday and it seems as though a whole week's work has been wasted.

Say what you will - the man's records and teams speak for themselves. Coach Bellissimo isn't a politician - just a coach who only concerned himself with the job of Wilmington football. He took a Class "D" team and moved it up to a "B" Division club. Although the numbers say Division III Wilmington competes with schools with far more students and much bigger football programs.

Through the power teams of the early and late 60's, Bowen, Esposito, etc. and into the 70's, the only thing that changed with Bellissimo was his graying hair. Hard work, preparation, desire and organization held true then and hold true even now. If you worked with him all week, come Saturday you'd probably have a better insight into the what-if's, how come's, what went right and what went wrong.

His class came through again with the recent developments at the high school. He had applied for the athletic director's job and quite naturally, was disappointed when he wasn't selected.

There could be many factors involved, such as the feeling that today's athlete isn't the same as when he first came on the Wilmington scene; the declining population at the high school while other area teams continue to grow; and maybe a host of others.

Bellissimo has many coaching years left in him and it wouldn't surprise me if another school shows an interest before next season.

A touch of coaching class has left with the departure of Bellissimo from the WHS ranks.

Bellissimo calls it quits after 22 years

Copyright 1978 Wilmington News Co., Inc.

Wilmington High School football coach Fred Bellissimo submitted a formal letter of resignation to the school committee last Wednesday night after 22 years at the helm of the tradition-laden Wildcats. The committee has not read the letter as yet, but it is likely that it will be read come the next regular meeting April 12.

The 48-year-old Bellissimo began his coaching career at Wilmington High School in 1956 after graduating from Belmont High School and the University of Notre Dame. He played football, basketball, and baseball at Belmont before moving to the Fighting Irish with whom he played football and baseball while helping to coach the school's baseball team. He graduated with a degree in physical education from Notre Dame in 1954 before taking a job as a physical education instructor at the Waltham Boys Club. He originally lived in Belmont before moving to Wilmington. The veteran Wildcat leader compiled a 121-62-15 record in his 22 years as the school's football coach. His 1960, 61, 70 and 72 teams were undefeated with the Wildcats rolling up a 23 game unbeaten streak in the years through 1960-63. The Cats won Class C titles in 1967 and 70 and were the small school champs in 1962. They were also the Division III champs in 1970. Bellissimo's teams won seven titles - the last being the Merrimack Valley Conference co-championship in 1976. Other championship years for Wilmington High School football were 1972, 1970, 1968, 1967, 1962 and 1961. Last year was Bellissimo's first losing season (4-5-1) in 12 autumns.

Bellissimo's plans are to remain as a physical education instructor at Wilmington High School. Speculation will now start as to who will be his coaching successor.

Sports Comment

The bottom line - Bellissimo was a winner

Copyright 1978 by Larz Neilson

by Rick Cooke
The man coached winning football teams - consistently. Consistently at a school that for years had been dwarfed by other schools in terms of total enrollment. Yet he was often the subject of criticism coming from players, fans, and the opposing coaches who thought that he might have run up the score just a bit against their teams over the years when he knew he was capable of doing it.

Fred Bellissimo, head football coach at Wilmington High School for 22 years and a member of the "old school" of coaching thought, posted his written letter of resignation last week to bring to an end a career coaching record that will most likely stand up for his lifetime.

Bellissimo was gruff, often downright rude - but he really didn't give a damn if he was liked. He was there to win football games and to give the Wilmington High School athlete a shot at success. Considering his coaching style I was surprised that he chose to bow out so quietly.

He refused comment when a Town Crier correspondent called him last week, saying only that he felt that after 22 years he had had enough. He talked it over with his family and the decision was made. You can speculate as to his reasons why - but I won't until he chooses to talk about the reasons why he called it quits - if he ever does. I have my hunches, but I don't dare risk the wrath of a man whom I always respected as a football coach of the highest quality.

I played for him once - that being in the 1972 All-Star game when it was still a battle between the Lowell stars and an MVC contingent. My first impression at the initial practice session for the game was - this guy was organized and he was from the "do it this way because I'm the boss," school. Coach Bellissimo didn't appear to be open to suggestions. He listened however, and he didn't miss much when it came down to winning or losing a football game. If memory serves me we practiced for two weeks before playing Lowell and pounding out a 32-0 win. For an All-Star group we were well prepared. The late Ray Riddick didn't particularly care for the score that helped alter the game's format to affect more balance. It was a lopsided score with the winners having the horses. What could Bellissimo do but play everyone - and everyone played well to account for the final score. Bellissimo just won games - period - that's the bottom line. He'd grind you or finesse you to death if that's what it took to win. He helped put Wilmington High School football on the map with the help of many fine gridiron athletes who came down the Wildcat pike.

People have criticized the football team as being too important in Wilmington. The reason that the sport gained such support was that the sporting society says win - and when you do win the sport picks up interest. When you don't win they label you a loser and a replacement with fresh winning ideas is knocking on the athletic director's door for that all-important interview that could land him your job. Bellissimo took a handful of moderately talented players who were outweighed by many teams in the late 1950's and began molding a winning spirit that typified the Wildcat teams throughout the 60's and 70's.

In 1956, Bellissimo's first year at the helm, the team didn't win a game in seven tries. Five years later they went undefeated and were Lowell Suburban Champs. The little school in Wilmington had come of age. They wouldn't stop coming for most of the 1960's - the exception being a brief slump in the years 1964 and 1965. In 1962 they were 9-0 and champs again.

The rebuilding road was rough until 1966 when the team was 6-2 and the next year Bellissimo spotted a freshman who would help him put Wilmington (and the name Esposito) on the lips of many college recruiters four years later.

In 1967 freshman Mike Esposito wore number 85 and played end while erasing Chelmsford's Arnie Hultzberg's record with 20 point after touchdowns.

The team was 8-0-0 and ready for a four year period where they went 31-3-1. Bellissimo's reputation as a winning coach was firmly established around not only the Merrimack Valley, but Massachusetts as well.

The Wildcats were MVC co-champs with Dracut in the first year of the conference in 1968 - a year when they marched to an 8-1-0 record. Only an upset by Tewksbury on Thanksgiving morning the next year kept the team from another title. They finished at 6-2-1 in 1969 before the team that could arguably be called the best in Bellissimo's reign romped to a title. The 1970 club piled up a 9-0-0 record and rolled to the MVC championship behind Esposito's record-breaking season that broke Swampscott's half-back Dick Jauron's career scoring record (450 points), and a rock-ribbed defense. It wasn't unusual to see Esposito wind his way through opposing defenses for 20 or 30 points per game. Bellissimo had that offensive weapon that every coach dreams about. He also had the tough Wilmington kids who seemed to feel right at home with his disciplinary coaching style that was par for the gridiron course during the 1960's when a portly fellow in Green Bay was winning NFL championships with his own well planned style of sweet execution and conditioning through mild forms of torture.

In 1971 the team slumped to 5-3-1, but Bellissimo gained a measure of revenge for Tewksbury's upset in 1969 when his Cats battled the Redmen to a 0-0 standoff in the mud at the Center School Field. The tie prevented us - and I say us because I was a tackle on that team - from grabbing a piece of the MVC title. The next year another great Bellissimo team (9-0-0) rolled to the title with the Turkey Day game being a 13-8 squeaker over Tewksbury after we had held an 8-0 lead into the fourth quarter. I'll never forget the frustration of losing to a team - and a coach I respected so much, but I knew we could beat it if we executed perfectly.

This is not simply post-resignation respect either. I did respect Fred and teams did have to execute flawlessly to top the Wildcats in their best years.

You made a mistake and bant - they were all over you. The 1972 team capitalized on opponents' flubs all year with a clawing defense that was one of the school's best. We fumbled twice - the Wildcats scored twice. Chalk up another loss to Wilmington's killer instinct that was more than slightly due to Bellissimo's coaching personality. Any good coach will correct mistakes with good instruction, but Fred was more like a drill instructor, teaching boys to be men while barking out Saturday's game plan in a style that became synonymous with Wilmington football.

Bellissimo and his team fought the rising Andover football tide in the years following the 1972 title. The 1973 season was a success by normal football standards at 7-2-0, but for the Wilmington football fans who had grown accustomed to dominance often times second place was a big let-down. That Wilmington club was a strong team as its 34-0 Turkey Day embarrassment handed to Tewksbury attests. Thank God I had graduated that summer. I was saved from another beating at the hands of yet another Bellissimo coached team that just kept coming at you, pile-driving its way to a win when a pass could have been so much subtler.

Subtlety was not one of Bellissimo's qualities - except last week when people in Tewksbury and surrounding MVC towns were whispering, "did you hear about Fred resigning?" It was unusual for a man who coached boys so aggressively to bow out so quietly and peacefully, without the least bit of fanfare that a coach of 22 years is entitled to.

His last three autumns at the helm were a tribute to his coaching style and the kids who adapted to it. Without one of the best gridiron teachers in the state (assistant Bob Aylward who had taken the Tewksbury job) Bellissimo regrouped his coaching staff and finished 4-3-3 in 1974 with a team that had some promising sophomores on the rise. Bellissimo's ability to cope with raw, but talented sophomores who were still learning was put to test over three years and it paid off handsomely with people like Jim Stewart, Sierrazza, Dave Rounds and Gordie Fitch triggering another Wildcat title run in 1976.

The 5-2-2 mark of 1975 was not good enough to match Andover who appeared ready to be the new dominant force in the Merrimack Valley. Wilmington resurfaced the next year (1976) when they survived several nagging injuries and a lack of experienced players on the bench to mold a 9-1-0 record that meant a co-championship with Tewksbury. Yet another Wilmington team went into a big game mentally and emotionally prepared as Wilmington ripped the Redmen 32-0 Thanksgiving morning at WHS to grab a piece of the MVC title and a berth in the Division II Schoolboy Super Bowl at Boston University.

While the Redmen, under the emotional Aylward, were nervous and perhaps over-prepared, Bellissimo's Wildcats truly reflected their coach's personality on that morning—playing under control, savage along the line, and with supreme confidence that this smaller Tewksbury team didn't belong on the same field with them. They didn't—and Bellissimo had done it again, winning the big game and holding off the challenge of a young coach (Aylward) who admits that he benefited from his years under Bellissimo. "We had a job to do and we did it," said Bellissimo afterward. Business as usual in Wilmington.

The team dropped a 20-12 decision to Lynn Classical in the Super Bowl game—the last battle for the outstanding crop of seniors who had blossomed in three years under Bellissimo. Last year the young Wildcats were 4-5-1 and local critics proclaimed the offense to be too conservative with the team being shutout three times and scoring just one touchdown on three other occasions. The first sub-500 season since 1965 was a disappointment to the locals who have come to expect so much of WHS football, but the truth of the matter was that last fall was the first stage of a rebuilding process similar to 1974.

It's true that Wilmington doesn't have the large numbers of talented male athletes (or female athletes for that matter) to draw from as does Chelmsford or Billerica. The Lions have a male enrollment of 1082 while Billerica has 897 boys enrolled. Wilmington's 436 ranks above only Dracut (426) and Lawrence (393) in male totals. There are intangible factors that make up the difference between a winner and a loser, however. Bellissimo was one of those intangibles. The Wilmington athletes are the other. I do not believe that Bellissimo resigned because he felt that he didn't have a chance to build a winning football team again because of the numbers game. That situation would never be enough to discourage Fred—whose confidence in his ability to coach a winner was so great that he probably thought that he could have fought a draw against the rising enrollment tide around the conference.

Often times a draw is not good enough—especially when you have a winning tradition that at times may seem more of a haunt than an added bonus. Whomever fills the coaching vacancy at Wilmington High can be sure that he will be walking in the shadow of the winning tradition established by Bellissimo.

Like him or not. Damn him or praise him as a high school Lombardi. Whether you liked his style or not—the man is a hell of a high school football coach.

WRBL playoffs

Fawns, Lions Junior champs

The unbeaten Fawns and once beaten Lions emerged as the Junior Division champions last Sunday as the Fawns downed the Minks 36-27 and the Lions came from behind to upset the Bulls 48-45.

Thursday (Semifinals)...The Bulls outslugged the Tigers 36-34 as Bob Perry (14), Jon Nolan (13) and Noel Jones (nine) led the attack. Jim Marsh fired in 10 points and Andy Kritter added nine for the upstart Tigers.

Ed Olshaw tossed in 22 and Jim Castellano chipped in with 12 as the Lions disposed of the Beavers 51-34. Steve Valletta and Bob Magliozzi combined for 27 points to pace Coach Wetzler's club.

In girls semifinal action, the Minks, led by Cindy Duffy's nine points, outlasted the Bees 19-14. Kerrin Taylor had six for the Bees.

The Fawns remained perfect—upending the Pandas 35-29. Karen Rowe and Jean Robinson teamed up for 18 points for the Fawns. Michele DiGirolamo (10) and Michele Hayden (eight) led the Pandas.

Sunday (Finals)...The Fawns jumped out to a quick lead and never looked back as they rolled to their 10th straight with a 36-27 conquest of the Minks. Jean Robinson led the charge with 15 points, topping off a fine season for Coach Lappa's club. Paula Burns and Cindy Duffy each tossed in nine for the Minks.

The boys final tilt turned into a real barn-burner as the stubborn Lions came from behind to snap the Bulls' win streak 48-45.

Coach Cunningham's club never stopped—battling back from an 11 point deficit to catch the previously unbeaten Bulls. Jim Castellano and Ed Olshaw had a fine game, combining for 38 points. Jon Nolan and Bob Perry also turned in excellent games as they teamed up for 30 points.

Due to problems with a jammed partition at the high school gym, the league was forced to cancel the rest of the mens' schedule and playoffs. Following are the final standings for Mens' League....

Buckos trip Cain
7-5 for title

Bucko's 7-Fred F. Cain 5

The Bucko's and Cainmen matched up in a final special playoff to determine the league title and both teams kept the theme of all close playoff games intact with an exciting contest that saw the score tied at five different times.

Merrill MacInnis had his biggest point output of the playoffs as he pocketed the first three Bucko scores for the hat trick and kept his team in the game. His scores were sandwiched around the individual efforts of Mike Esposito, Dave Irwin and Andy Costello of the Cain Club.

No team could get more than a goal lead for more than three minutes. With the score tied 3-3, Snooky Lynch put Cain's on top for a short period and then Russ Myers came back to tie it 4-4. Ken DeMaggio opened up a 5-4 Bucko lead only to have Lynch, who ended up the individual scoring king in the playoffs with 11 goals and three assists, tie it up for the Cainmen.

Russ Myers gave the Bucko's the lead midway through the third period, which they were able to hold onto thanks to the superb goaltending of Roy Anderson who thwarted several good Cain chances including three consecutive bids while the Bucko's were skating with a two-man disadvantage.

Mike Gracia finally tied the game with an open net tally with 17 seconds remaining.

Bucko's 5-Bulldogs 1

Bucko's after a shaky start in the playoffs, battled back to gain at least a tie in the round robin tournament by stopping the Bulldogs for their third consecutive win.

Doug Fish continued his hot scoring spree as his first goal of the night tied the score after the Bulldogs had jumped out to a quick 1-0 lead. He added his second score in the second period to give his team a two goal lead.

The brothers DeMaggio—Ken and Dennis—had other Bucko scores, with Russ Myers pocketing the fifth and final goal. Bill McLaughlin had the lone Bulldog score as he led his hard luck team in its final game of the tournament.

The young Bulldogs made a very respectable showing as four of their five losses were by one goal—two of them coming in the final two minutes of play. Roy Anderson continued to sparkle in the nets for the Bucko's.

Fred F. Cain 9-Leo's 3

The Cainmen—the Cinderella team of the playoffs—continued in the pursuit of the playoff championship as they completely dominated Leo's to force a special playoff with the league champion Bucko's. Snooky Lynch, with a superb individual effort—5 goals, 1 assist—took over the individual scoring race (he finished with nine goals and two assists) and backboned his team to a one-sided win over the Canteenmen. Dino Esposito chipped in with a pair of scores while Andy Costello and Dave Irwin had solo goals.

John Carlino with two goals and John Davis with a solo goal were the only scorers for Leo's. Cain's used a balanced attack as they had three goals in each period to single scores for the Canteenmen.

Relief is coming for the long-suffering people along Route 129 said Rep. James Miceli to the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, at its Tuesday noon luncheon.

"I won't repeat the old saw about our being mapped to death" was his opening remark. He then proceeded to lay out, in progression, the changes that are coming in the planning of Route 129 and of other projects.

Miceli told his listeners that he has been in to the Department of Public Works offices at least once a week ever since he became a Representative. The Environmental impact survey, which has been the reason for much of the delay, is now being printed, Miceli said, and will be available in a week or two.

The hearing on the Route 129 bypass will be within a year, he promised.

There are several items he mentioned as having priority - a traffic light at West Street and Route 129, together with some unspecified relief for traffic problems, and a new plan for Route 62 at Burlington Avenue were two things that Miceli promised would be completed in three to three and a half years. The new West Street plans, he said, were "now on the drawing boards."

Referring to the new Lake Street bridge, Miceli said he was surprised to learn, when he became a Representative, that all planning for the bridge had been dropped. It was because the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce had been active on the subject that planning for a new bridge was started.

He learned that the plans for the B&M railroad bridges, from Wilmington to Billerica, had taken priority. The idea was to reduce the number of bridges, but Miceli said, the Lake Street bridge is again on the drawing boards, and he expects to see it built before fall.

The Butters Row bridge, in Wilmington, was also spoken of, by Miceli. He had been working with the DPW on the problems of that bridge. He learned a couple of weeks ago that the street was closed, because of the problems. The state DPW had its points, on the construction of the Wilmington sewer, and when the contractor got to the point of the bridge the Boston & Maine engineers got into the act. The bridge is now closed, for a time.

There will be a new Butters Row bridge, Miceli promised. Both the Lake Street bridge and the Butters Row bridge will soon be a reality.

"Dead Duck"

Miceli also discussed Woburn and Tewksbury highway problems, relative to the State Department of Public Works.

Any exit, in the near future, onto Route 93 from the Dascob Road - Route 125 area, is now a dead duck, Miceli declared. He said that he and the Tewksbury representative (Jay Gaffney) had been in to discuss the problems with the DPW, and had been told that it would be some years before any exit could be made from the area of Wilmington - Tewksbury - Andover.

Woburn, Miceli declared, has a pressing problem because of the new Woburn Industrial Park. Both he and Rep. Bill Shaughnessey of Woburn had been discussing the problems with the state DPW. He hopes that he and Mr. Shaughnessey will be able to sit down together, to discuss the problem.

The Woburn Industrial Park problem, Miceli said, "Exceeds our own." If he and Shaughnessey can work together, he hopes an answer can be found. There are some big problems regarding traffic at the Woburn - Wilmington line that have to be solved. He hopes that a solution can be found, together with a solution for an enlarged traffic circle at Route 129 and 93.

The Woburn thinking, Miceli said, is that they will be able to find a way out of Woburn Industrial Park through Wilmington.

Taxes

Miceli discussed, briefly, court reform, the county hospital, and tax relief.

The three problems, he declared, had to be "looked at collectively, along with school financing."

He had voted for the court reform bill Monday night.

Miceli told his listeners that the sum of $111,000,000 had been found - discovered - for the court reform bill, and he had voted for it before somebody diverted the money to other uses.

The net result, he declared, was to remove sums from the Middlesex County costs - some of which would reflect on the county assessments for the Middlesex towns. The assessment for Wilmington, Miceli declared, would have been $286,000 - something under $2 on the tax bill for Wilmington home owners.

"We were told that if we voted for the court bill it would hurt the school financing formula" Miceli told his listeners. "I could not see that."

The school financing formula, he declared, is "only for the larger cities - Boston - Lowell - Lynn." At the present time it consists, Miceli said, of a "big bunch of ifs."

Why did I choose to serve on the Committee on Education? he asked his audience. Why should a man who has never served on school committees - but instead on a board of selectmen - interest himself in school budgets?

"It was simple. That's where the money goes, and Wilmington has not been served too well!"

"I served on the committee, to put it bluntly, for the bucks!" he said. "Wilmington is now receiving 5 per cent more than it used to under the old formula."

"I got myself involved in every area possible, in my district."

He related that it was only a month before he got himself involved in the question of county costs, and his first talk, on the floor, was on that subject.

"Wilmington pays a lot, for its share of county government, and relief is years away!"

The bill on court reform, Miceli said, for which he voted, is in a way a reform for County government - if it goes through the Senate and if the Governor signs it. It is in particular a reform for Middlesex and Suffolk counties - maybe less for some of the western counties.

gthe Middlesex county Hospital - so few beds - so much cost. Last year it had a deficit of one-half million dollars.

In the hearing "I was the only representative who went - and I recommended the closing of the hospital. Senator Tully, too, attended, and he recommended the closing of the hospital."

"This week the figures are being published on the current deficit, and it will be nearly $1 million. That hospital should be closed immediately."

If you have an FHA-insured mortgage on your house, you can sell or trade it without paying off the mortgage.

The new owner's name can be substituted on the old mortgage. If both the FHA and the lender agree to the substitution. This releases you from personal liability on the mortgage.

You can sell without getting the lender's and FHA's consent to substitute the new name, but you are still liable for the mortgage, and the new owner makes his monthly payments to you. You then make them to the lender.

If you owe more than 75% on an FHA-insured mortgage on a home you are selling or trading to someone who will not be living in it, you may be required to pay off the mortgage if you are planning to buy another house with an FHA-insured mortgage.

Students and parents raising money for trip

Eighth graders at the West Intermediate School are going to Pennsylvania Dutch Country in May. If the trip is not made affordable for every young tr who w/nts to go, it won't be for lack of trying.

For months the Parent Advisory Committee and teachers and administrators at the school have been raising money to help reduce the cost of the trip for each individual student. They've run dances, sponsored cake sales and even had a rent-a-kid program.

Last Friday, the PAC sponsored an Italian Night which featured a lasagna dinner. Entertainment was provided by troling minstrels.

Monday evening a talent show was held under the direction of Tizrah Krey, a science teacher and drama coach at the school.

Sixty-seven youngsters performed before a packed house. Each act was cleverly introduced by colorful puppets. - Puppeteers were Kevin Dicey and Richard McQuestion.

Highlights of the evening included a jazz group; the Worriers, a skit about men on the moon; a telephone skit; and the West Intermediate version of "Hello Mother, Hello Father" - the Camp Granada song.

A skit called "Pep Talk" featured a cheerleading demonstration and depicted a coach as he gave his big pre-game talk. In this portion of the program, Cindy Harris performed a baton-twirling solo for an appreciative audience.

The very latest for spring wardrobes was displaye in a fashion show emceed by Debbie Ceasar.

Other soloists included Elizabeth Spada, who executed a professional-

Health Center receives
major gift from Ambrist

The Wilmington Regional Health Center Building Fund took a giant step recently, thanks to a $5,000 gift from Ambrist, Inc. of Andover Street.

The gift was presented by Ambrist President Walter Gaudin and Treasurer Arthur Mason to Carl Melander, president of Cerio, who is a worker in the campaign's Major Gifts Division.

The Building Fund has a goal of $1 million, a little less than a third of the overall cost of the $3.5 million facility.

Sam Shapiro, president of Sweetheart Plastics and honorary chairman of the Building Fund, has said that he expects $500,000 of the $1 million goal to be contributed by local businesses and industries. Ambrist's contribution has pushed the figure donated by local industries past the $200,000 mark.

The Regional Health Center is a 27,000 foot ambulatory care center now under construction on a 22 acre site near the intersection of Routes 93 and 62. When the Center opens later this year, it will feature 24 hour walk-in urgent care, a laboratory, X-ray, physical therapy, social services, community health education and physical fitness.

The Center, a joint venture of Wilmington area communities and the Choate Memorial Hospital in Woburn, is expected to attract more than a dozen primary care physicians, specialists and sub-specialists.

Girls gymnastics

In response to an overwhelming demand for girls gymnastics, the Recreation Department will sponsor an eight-week program for girls ages four through grade 12.

The program begins on April 22 in the high school gym. Experience or special ability is not a requirement to participate.

The program includes:

1. A pre-school class with a minimum age of four beginning on April 22 from 10 to 10:50 a.m. Call the Recreation Office to register - this is a must. 658-6512.

2. A grades one through three class beginning April 22 from 11 to 11:50 a.m. Registration is a must for this one too.

3. Grades four through 12 classes will be tested on April 15 (which is registration). Grades four through six from 12:30 to 2:30 and grades seven through 12 from 2:30 to 4 p.m. and will be grouped according to ability.

Girls should look in the Town Crier during the following week to determine their classes which will be held in two Saturday classes; two Tuesday evening classes, and two Thursday evening classes. Maximum number in a class is 30.

Cost is $10.00 for eight weeks. Girls must wear leotards and bare feet or peds.

Cain testimonial to benefit Building Fund

The Friends of Fred F. Cain are organizing a testimonial in honor of the late Representative Cain on May 17 at Caruso's Diplomat in Saugus.

according to the organization's Chairperson, Mrs. Josephine O'Neil of High Street, Wilmington. The testimonial is part of a fund raising effort to benefit the Regional Health Center in Wilmington, an ambulatory care center now under construction at the intersection of Routes 93 and 62.

Ann Butters of Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington, the event's ticket chairperson, said recently that an automobile will be raffled off at the testimonial as a means of raising additional funds. Offered is a Plymouth Horizon that she said will go on display in shopping centers throughout the area.

Representative Cain, a veteran of six terms in the Massachusetts Legislature, was the Charter Vice-President of the Wilmington Regional Hospital Association, the forerunner of the Regional Health Center Association. Mr. Cain was also active in more than a dozen area service clubs and civic organizations, including the Wilmington Rotary Club, the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks, and the Wilmington Knights of Columbus.

The Regional Health Center is a joint project of Wilmington area communities represented by the Regional Health Center Association and Choate Memorial Hospital in Woburn. When the 27,000 square foot facility opens later this year, it will feature 24-hour walk-in service, X-ray, Lab, Physical Therapy, Social Service, Community Health Education and other needed community health services. In addition, the Center is expected to attract a number of primary care physicians as well as a mix of other specialists and sub-specialists.

Swing your partner

Last Friday was the night for the annual father-daughter square dance at the Woburn Street School in Wilmington. More than 300 people turned out to do-si-do to the calls of Tom Rinker.

Skating revue

Rehearsals are now in progress for the Wilmington Figure Skating Club's 1978 Ice Revue to be held at the Merrimack College Rink in North Andover on Saturday, April 15 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday afternoon, April 16 at 2:30.

The theme of this year's production is TV Fantasy and will showcase close to 150 local skaters as well as a full array of guest stars.

Appearing with the club skaters will be the exciting seniors pairs team of Caitlin and Peter Carruthers, 1978 Eastern Silver Medalists and national competitors; and Kingsford Swan, former New England Junior Mens Bronz Medalist and veteran of many skating shows in the Boston area.

Tickets for the show may be reserved by calling ticket chairman, Jean Piscatelli at 657-7864 or Pat Skeffington at 664-4207, or by calling the club office at 657-4556 between 3:00 and 6:00 p.m. daily.

Whiskers...

When 14-year-old Rico Catalano walked into the Town Crier office wanting to do some work, he didn't imagine that he'd come up with his own version of the bottle bill.

A good task for a fellow of his age, we figured, would be picking up all the beer bottles outside the building. Since there is no deposit on the bottles, there's no incentive for a kid to pick up bottles, unless he can find someone willing to pay him. Or so we thought.

Within five minutes of his beginning work, he was tapping on the window, wearing a big grin. He waved a dollar bill, saying "Look what I found!"

Sentinels training volunteers

The Sentinels telephone suicide prevention and crisis intervention hotline (944-8888) is currently training volunteers.

Staff workers are not counselors or therapists, but just ordinary persons trained to listen. Their listening could save a life.

Monica Dickens, founder and director of the Samaritans, a Boston based suicide prevention group, spoke recently at a Choate Hospital program on suicide prevention sponsored by the Sentinels.

"I spoke with a woman recently whose six-year-old child was killed when he ran from behind a bush in front of a school bus," she said. Too late, she continued, his mother realized that by telling his friends he was going away and by giving away his favorite toys, he was sending out distress signals.

Dickens agreed that suicidal people give signals in their behavior long in advance, but she pointed out that these signals "may not be picked up or are disregarded because suicide is a terribly uncomfortable subject."

According to her, suicide prevention is not strictly for professionals. It is on this premise which volunteer organizations like the Samaritans and the Sentinels are based.

She explained telephone befriending (the process of telephone suicide intervention) as "simply two human beings together on an equal level."

Dickens and the Samaritans have been active in the organization of the Sentinels, a 24-hour suicide prevention and marital, family and personal crisis intervention telephone hotline in this area.

Persons interested in volunteering their time or just seeking further information should call Alice Sullivan at the Sentinels, 944-8888.
